“Daddy,

I miss you with every fiber of my being. I love you with all of my heart! I'm so glad you got to meet your granddaughter before you left this earth. Lord knows you loved her so much as well as all the other wonderful handsome young men you got to be Pappy to! I hope you knew that I forgave you and I was hoping to make my own amends with you but felt like I had waited too late to do so! I apologize to my family for lashing out the way I have and hope they can find it in their hearts to forgive me, as everyone grieves differently. I have good days and I have bad days but nothing in the world will take this empty feeling in my heart that I now have from missing you. I hope you know I was always so proud of you. You are the strongest man I've ever seen go through what you did and still remain positive even though you struggled daily! You were the first man I ever loved and showed me what having a Daddy was supposed to look like. I'm no longer angry at the things I used to be angry for. I miss you so much Daddy my heart hurts. Guess what... what? I love you, I knew that was coming... you know what? What... I love you too! I knew that was coming... we used to say that all the time! ❤️ This is not goodbye but see you later ❤️

Love,

Your Angel

“ Here is Patrick with our children, Jennifer and Nathan. Pat was always great with kids. Thinking about the 12 years I lived with Pat during my childhood, I realize how short that time was compared to a lifetime. Being six years older has made me very protective of our brother, Pat, during his illnesses. Three memories come to the front of my mind. When Jim and I married in 1970, Pat was an overworked usher since our parents' friends wanted him as their escort. He fell asleep in the midst of an afterparty at home. Pat bought me a robe when Jennifer was born that I still wear and think of him every time I wear it. For which I am the most grateful, Pat stayed with our father at our house for about five days so we could go to our niece's wedding. God bless Patrick in heaven and those of us who miss him so much.

“ Over the past few years I have had the privilege of getting to know Patrick just a little. He was funny, kind and spirited. The last time I was with Pat on 15 February, he insisted on standing up to give me a hug. He told me that the last 10 years of his life, with Glenna and their family were the best of his life. Pat told me how Glenna's boys were just like his own sons and how much he loved them and he knew they loved him. When I left he hugged me again and told me loved me. A man like Patrick never dies. The love he gave and was given lives on forever. I will never forget your kindness and grace Patrick. To Glenna and each of you, I am so truly sorry for your loss. This was a good man who suffers no more and is finally at peace. Love and hugs to all of you

I was Pat's mom, Jurelle McEwen's care giver for over four years till her death. Pat was always nice to me and the family became close friends to me. I'll never forget those four years. It will be forever we etched in my memory. A wonderful family.
